Qualified Longevity Annuity – QLAC

Primary Benefit:  Guarantee Future Income

A Qualified Longevity Annuity Contract (QLAC) is a relatively new type of deferred income annuity that was created as a result of a July 1, 2014, U.S. Treasury Department ruling. Please visit our Deferred Income / Longevity Annuities page for a complete description of this type of annuity. The 2014 ruling addressed and solved a problem for many qualified account holders, and makes the purchase of Deferred Income Annuities with tax qualified funds from an IRA or 401k account, a much more attractive option.

Prior to the ruling, if you wanted to purchase a deferred income annuity with tax qualified funds, you were required to start your guaranteed income payments no later than age 73, in order to satisfy IRS mandated Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) rules. But now, if your deferred income annuity meets certain requirements, it is considered a Qualified Longevity Annuity Contract, allowing you to defer the start of your income payments to as late as age 85, while at the same time bypassing the normal required minimum distribution rules on the funds allocated to the QLAC.

Qualified Longevity Annuity Contract (QLAC) Requirements

- 1) Over your lifetime, you cannot allocate more than $200,000 from all of your IRAs.
- 2) Payments can begin at any age, but must begin no later than age 85.

It's important to note, that the $200,000 limit is per person. Spouses can each allocate up to the $200,000 limit from their IRAs. All dollar amounts allocated to Qualified Longevity Annuity Contracts completely avoid and are not included when calculating future required minimum distributions (RMDs).

Rates are based on current interest rates and are subject to change at any time. Some first year yields/rates reflect the fixed rate plus a premium bonus or interest rate enhancement. Not all annuities are available in all states. Surrender charges may apply to withdrawals during the surrender period. A 10% IRS penalty may apply to withdrawals prior to age 59 ½. Annuity product guarantees rely on the financial strength and claims-paying ability of the issuing insurer. Annuities are not guaranteed by any bank or credit union and are not insured by the FDIC or any other federal government agency.
